- 1) In Bildad's second speech, he criticized Job harshly and used Job's own _____ and _____ against him (Job 18:5, 11, 13, 19). His speech served only to _____ Job, for Job had already pointed out the flaw in his friends' thinking: if God does bring this kind of calamity _____ on the wicked, then God had indeed _____ justice in Job's case. Job went on to say that he cried out for _____ but no one answered. His own family and servants held him in _____. But no sooner had Job voiced his feelings of isolation and disgrace, when suddenly his _____ in God burst forth: "I know that my _____ lives, and at the last he will stand upon the earth. And after my skin has been thus destroyed, yet in my flesh I shall see _____" (Job 19:25–26). Job was convinced that not even death could separate him from God's love and final vindication. Bildad is a sobering example of the unjust _____ of a godly man by those who profess to be godly themselves (i.e., the church). We need to be very careful what we _____ to those who are suffering. Otherwise, we could be guilty of not speaking of God what is right (cf. Job 42:8).
